The LGBTQ+ population makes up a small part of the wider society. Many in the LGBTQ+ population still do not recognise the signs of domestic abuse and the impact it leaves.

Domestic abuse is still a difficult concept for society and the LGBTQ+ population faces additional barriers such as Homophobia, Biphobia,

Transphobia and Acephobia.

Prejudice still exists and it can affect a person's confidence in sharing their sexual orientation and/or gender identity.

'Anyone can be a victim of domestic abuse, regardless of gender, age, ethnicity, socio-economic status, sexuality or background. '-UK Government.

Fear of not being understood or fear of inappropriate services might stop someone from accessing the help they need.

> If you are in an abusive relationship, we have specialists available to help you.

Domestic abuse is a crime.

It involves the abuse of power and control by one person over another. Coercive control, emotional abuse physical and sexual abuse, financial abuse, harassment and stalking are all forms of abuse.

Trans people can experience domestic abuse from a same or opposite sex partner, and can do so regardless of the gender identity of either person.

Abusers can use sexual orientation and/or gender identity as an excuse for their abusive behaviours.

Additional isolation that Homo/Bi/Trans/Ace phobia can cause.

Alienation from tive parents or partners.

Threatening to out you or outing you without your permission.
